

Waste Management

Livestock and poultry producers helped state officials develop one of the first and most comprehensive Concentrated Animal Feeding Operation (CAFO) regulations in the country.

- CAFO producers work with USDA officials to develop waste management plans for their individual operations.
- Alabama farmers routinely conduct water and soil tests to ensure nutrients are being utilized.

“Alabama’s CAFO rules mandate ZERO discharge of animal waste into water ways.”